VERBAL DESCRIPTION:

Hollow fragment of an anthropomorphic figurine ~~fragment~~ which includes a large fragment of the headdress, the left earpool - small in relation to the headdress and the headdress plate. Headdress has the "X and bar" pattern - a portion of the X is fissile as is one of the bars - they are puffy raised strips of clay. The upper portion of the headdress is rounded and smooth & it curves around the back & then flattens out to form the back of the figurine. The decorated portion is separated from the setting band by a deep groove. Beneath the groove is a flange-plate - and beneath that a puffy earpool. The break appears to have occurred between the ear & neck. Exterior is smooth, interior is rough & lighter than the exterior.
